GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN, MILLEDGEVILLE, GA., APRIL 13, 1927.

NUMBER 12.

ALUMNAE TO REPORT AT G. S. C. MEET.

IN MACON, APRIL 15

The work of the memorial campaign is progressing and it is hoped that the foundations for the hospital, which is to be erected in memory of Dr. M. M. Parks, will soon be laid on the campus of the Georgia State College for Women.

Former students, graduates and friends of the college are urged to attend the G. S. C. W. Meet which is to be held in Macon, April 15th, to renew old friendships and to renew their connection with the college and all phases of its work.

The meeting is to be held at the Young Women's Christian Association, headquarters 453 Cherry Street, at 8:30 in the evening.

Those in charge of the meeting urge that every graduate and former student attend this meeting. They expect representatives from every district of the state and to hear reports from the various districts. Also, the county organizations will be represented and reports from these organizations will be given.

No more suitable memorial could be erected in honor of Dr. M. M. Parks, the beloved educator, the man who gave his life that others might live more fully, than others might find the happy life in service to others. It is hoped that each person connected in any way with the college will show the love and reverence due so great a man, by attending the meeting and in putting forth every effort to make the "Parks Memorial Hospital" a success.

Journalism Class Visits Macon.

The journalism class of G. S. C. W., under the leadership of Professor Wynn, is to launch upon a new project. It is to have the privilege of editing a page in the Macon Daily Telegraph on Monday, April 11, and also the Milledgeville Times one week in the near future.

The journalism class will go to Macon Monday. It is to help the reporters put over to the entire paper and in addition, is to edit one entire page. This page will contain articles written by the different members of the class.

Mr. W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Daily Telegraph, is to entertain the class and the Telegraph staff at a dinner Monday evening.

In addition to this enjoyable project, the editing of the Milledgeville Times will also prove an interesting experiment. The staff that has been elected by the class is as follows:

Marguerite Clark, editor-in-chief.
Mariona Horne, managing editor.
Mae Burkhart, city editor.
Lucile Thomas, social editor.
Betty Jane Pierrott, feature editor.
Estelle Cathy, literary editor.
Mojah Whitley, state editor.
Lillie Mae Shipp, news editor.
Virginia Arnold, advertising mgr.
The Stewart, college editor.

FRESHMEN GIVEN SELF-GOVERNMENT

Dorothy Parks Leads Class Ceremony.

The date of April 1st will hereafter be marked in the minds of the Freshmen as a date of privileges and not as a day for jokes and foolishness. For it was no joke when they received their privileges on that day, Friday, April 1, 1927. Rather, it was with sincere and appreciative spirits that they, after the examples of the upper classes, received entire self-government by the formal presentation of special privileges.

Friday in chapel, the class formally accepted the Freshman privileges, the class officers and dormitory officers being in charge of the exercises. The class president, Dorothy Parks, opened the exercises by a short but spirited talk, in which she expressed her desire for the successful sailing of the "Good Ship." She impressed the fact that although the Freshmen are its youngest members, they have their responsibilities in aiding the captain and "Cranford" Given By Class in Drama.

Among the varied and interesting programs that have been presented by Miss Katherine Scott's class in modern drama probably "Cranford" may be considered the most unique. This play which was taken from Mrs. Gaskell's book "Cranford," was given by a group from the class and coached by Mary Jane Parker.

It was quite amusing to see what typical old maids certain members of the class could make, and the statements they made about their town and friends were quite remarkable. Cranford was a town composed entirely of maids for Virginia McMichael who took the part of Miss Mattie Jenkins, Cranford's aristocratic old maid, said that not one of her friends had married in fifteen years. There was not a man in the village, but Christine Montgomery, who was Miss Pole, declared that she knew all about men because her father was a man.

The entire play was full of amusing incidents and anyone who was over at Ennis Basement on April 2nd at 11:40 will agree that it was an hour of enjoyment. The play will be given before the entire student body April 18th.

Much credit is due to the cast and the coach. The caste was as follows: Miss Mattie Jenkins—Virginia McMichael.

Mrs. Fitz-Adams—Eloise Penn.
Mrs. Jamieson—Catherine Brim.
Mary Smith—Catherine Bagley.
Mrs. Forrester—Harlowe Thompson.
Martha, the maid—Mildred Stell.
Peter Jenkins—Mary Jane Parker.
Lady Glenmire—Marie Tucker.
Miss Betty Barker—Jennie Clare Meadows.
Mrs. Jamieson's dog—"Jim my Scott."
Miss Pole—Christine Montgomery.

Noted Educator Brings Stirring Message.

Dr. A. L. Suhrie, professor of Teachers' College and Normal School Education of New York University, recently visited the campus.

Dr. Suhrie was professor of education at G. S. C. from 1912 to 1914, and therefore has a very direct interest in G. S. C. W. His visits to Teachers' Colleges and Normal Schools, making surveys enables him to investigate the work the nation is doing toward educating her youth.

He addressed the student body two different times. He defined a school as a place where young people came together to educate themselves and each other with the help of good teachers. By many clever examples he illustrated this. Dr. Suhrie drew a very real picture of an ideal teacher. Her principal quality, Dr. Suhrie contends, is the ability to love people.

Generally the theme Dr. Suhrie's entire address could be called "Co-operation." He strongly advocates the necessity of such a situation between faculty and students and among students themselves. "Conduct," says Dr. Suhrie, "is to conduct yourself that others may be able to work with you."

Father—Father—Father!

She: "I showed father the verses you sent me. He was pleased with them."

He: "Indeed. What did he say?"
She: "He said he was delighted to find that I wasn't going to marry a poet."

Delightful Violin And Piano Concert

On Friday evening, April 1, 1927, a most delightful entertainment was given in the college auditorium by Miss Beatrice Horsbrugh and Miss Olga Sapio. The recital consisted of a number of beautiful arrangements with Miss Horsbrugh, violinist, and Miss Sapio, pianist.

Miss Horsbrugh is instructor of violin at the college, she has a large class of talented pupils. She is the director of the college orchestra, which has entertained the student body many times. Miss Sapio, of New York city, is her visitor, with whom she studied in London.

In the recital they played a number of sonatas for the violin and piano, which were arranged by their former instructor, Miss Sapio played several piano solos and Miss Horsbrugh charmed the audience with her violin solos. The entire program was delightful and fully enjoyed by the audience.

The program was as follows:

Sonata for Violin and Piano.....Grieg

Allegro Molto Ed Appassionato Romanza

Allegro Animato

Piano—La Fille Aux Cheveux De Lin

.....Debussy

Danse Debussy

Nocture for Left Hand Alone, Scriabin

Cracavienne antastique, Paderewsky

Allegro Siotoc Assai.

Former Faculty Member Honored.

Friends here of Dr. John W. Good will be interested to know that in June his Alma Mater, Erskine College (South Carolina) will confer on him the Litt. D. degree, an honor which he well deserved because of his accomplishments in the literary and educational world. At present, Dr. Good is at the head of the English department at Agnes College which position he has held for the past three years. He is to return to that institution next year with a considerable increase in salary. In addition to his teaching work, he is assistant pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church of Atlanta.

It will be remembered that Dr. Good was for nearly six years head of the English department of the Georgia State College for Women, where his noble life and influence touched many hundreds of girls now scattered all over the state and nation. He was a splendid teacher, and his students retain for him through the years a loyalty and love that is remarkable. As director of the Summer School of this college for a Entire Cabinet to Begin Early Training.

In looking forward to the new year and planning for its success the Young Women's Christian Association of G. S. C. felt the need of selecting leaders for the coming school year. These new officers are elected this year that they may be planning and thinking of their new responsibilities and that they may learn from the retiring officers the many things learned through experience during the past year.

Our Y. W. C. A. has adopted a very democratic plan of election and the plan was submitted and voted on by the entire membership last Wednesday in chapel. At the same time nominations were made for the five officers.

The returns of the voting as submitted to the membership were as follows:

President, Grace Taylor, Waynesboro, Ga.; vice president, Harlow Thompson, Coma, Ga.; secretary, Lucile Scroggin, Sargent, Ga.; treasurer, Margaret Hightower, Nelson, Ga.; under graduate representative, Mary J. Parker, Fairburn, Ga.

To work with these officers the following girls have been chosen as heads of the departments of the Y. W. C. A.:

Social Department, Marguerite Jackson; religious department, Margaret Lumpkin; publicity department, Wynelle Otwell; service department, Sypper Youmans; World Fellowship department, Faye Sessions.

Beside these people who will head the organization there are to be elected the chairman of the different committees working together under the executive officers. These will make up the Y. W. C. A. cabinet for next year.

As these new officers take up their duties we feel sure that they shall catch the challenge that these responsibilities and privileges bring. There is a challenge in the very fact

SPECTRUM NEARS COMPLETION.

The Spectrum for '26 and '27 is now nearing completion. The staff plans to deliver the books to the students within the next few weeks. Work was begun in November, and has progressed so rapidly that the books are now in the hands of the printer. The campus views, feature pictures, and snapshots promise to be particularly interesting sections of the books.

Those wishing to place orders for a copy should notify Lorine Teaver, business manager, as soon as possible.

APRIL.

In April, 1917, just ten years ago, war was declared on Germany by the United States. Then came days of mobilization, months of heart-breaking anguish while mothers waited for just a word from sons "over there." Day after day, news came that some had fallen in battle. Day by day, soldiers waited for just a word from home, as they lay in the dark trenches beneath bursting shells. Battles at Argonne, Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood raised the death toll to a staggering number. Europe was devastated, and America mourned the loss of thousands of her sons then lying in Flanders Field, when Armistice was signed November 11, 1918.

Armistice brought peace, an end of fighting, suffering, and suspense. Since then, peace has reigned in our country. It has grown and prospered until it is today the most prosperous of all nations.

Once again, after ten years, we reach another April. It comes to remind us of the war begun ten years ago, and of the peace we now enjoy. Once again, April comes to transform the world into a fairyland with a myriad flowers and birds.

Once again Eastertide draws near, such a different Eastertide from that of ten years ago. It was in April so many, many years ago that,

"They found the great stone rolled away,
And found Him whom men had crucified,
With cruel spears, had pierced his side
And mocked with jests and gibe that day,
Gone from the darkness and gloom
Of Death's grim tomb."

The remembrance of those other Aprils years ago, makes this one a happier, more pleasant one. Oh! April, when you come once again, may you bring again such joy, such prosperity, and such contentment as our country now enjoys.

SPRINGTIME OR NATURAL LAZINESS.

Are you the person who looks to the spring as the time for another case of that old "spring fever?" A hopeless state of ennui is effected by some in the spring. We use this as an excuse for the natural perversity in our makeup. We get a vigorous case of the "can't do it." Procrastination becomes our theme. All in all we are good for nothing. What's the good of this humdrum monotony, we wonder.

Like "the man who has eyes and sees not," we blindly exist when we hear optimistic expressions of real live joy, we skeptically frown. Pessimists we are, and consider the enthusiastic audacious creatures. Assumed mental and sensory oblivion act as a rebuff to any penetration of pleasure. A great excuse for natural laziness is afforded by the springtime.

Try the unusual. Be an optimist for awhile. Take a glimpse at the world. Nature has had a wonderful rejuvenation. Trees, flowers, and birds have a gala spirit. Visual, alfactory, and auditory impressions are beautiful and vivid. Can we resist the appeal of things?

CAREERS.

Essentially problematic, and quite pertinently interesting to the feminine cosmos, is the question of careers. In this great century of equality, women have found openings in every sphere. She needs only the power of decision coupled with the capacity to persevere.

True it is that all the fetters of prejudice have not been broken. These are fast dwindling into petty and worn strands of conventionalism. We always have some "sticklers" for the more prosaic form. The broad and fine woman will ignore such forces and will forge on to real success.

Women of this type are changing tenor of the age. They write plays; they paint pictures; they conduct law suits; they perform surgical miracles; they enter pedagogical fields; and they do these things as effectively as men. Feminism has come into its own creating a most vivid and interesting sheet in our history. We are its contemporaries; we are enjoying the great panoramic exposition of feminine talent.

EXCHANGE

Men and women of Pomona College at Claremont, Cal., have been appearing on their campus minus shoes and stockings. It was necessary to resort to this expedient because of rainfall of 8.11 inches—The Technique.

Last Saturday afternoon Bobby Jones, a freshman in the Lamar School of Law, turned in his card of 281 for the 72 holes of medal play and thus added to this string of laurels, the Southern Open Crown. This title was won from a field of stars the like of which has never before been seen outside of a national championship.—The Emory Wheel.

The Blue Stocking quotes the New Student on "The Perfect Yell."

What is a good college yell? Thomas Burke, the English author, who notes Limehouse Nights, describes it as follows:

"I understand that the essentials of a good college yell is that it be utterly meaningless, barbaric, and larynx rocking. It should seem to be the work of some philologist who has suddenly gone mad under the strain of his studies and has attempted to converse with an aborigine."

Some college yells do not go back to the aborigines, but only to ancient Greece. "Brek ek-ek-ek-ek, Coax, Coax," part of Yale's battle cry is borrowed from The Frogs by Aristophanes.

The Furman University Glee Club will begin its annual trip through South Carolina within a few days. It is planned to take a piano with the club. The Glee Club gives as its reason for doing this the fact that in many towns where concerts are given the pianos are not properly tuned. The piano will be sent on the train by express.

The New York Evening Post has offered a prize of $100.00 to any college undergraduate who will best explain the cause for the mental depression that is sweeping through American schools and colleges.

ON CLUBS.

Our college is known all over the south for its friendship and love among the girls. There are many causes for this, splendid leadership, fine spirit and loyal co-operation between the student body and faculty. How many have ever stopped to really consider the part clubs have played in our college life?

We all remember how in the early days of our Freshman year we were besieged on every side by our older sisters to join "My Club." Oh, we have the most wonderful times we go on hikes and everything.

You joined a club and met some of the nicest girls. You found out that Mary Jones who was a member of your club lived next door to your best boy friend and that he said the nicest things about you.

Then when you went on a hike, didn't the bacon sizzle and the heavenly coffee! Oh blazing fire ghost stories, stories, jokes and how you did sing!

How thrilled you were when the leader of your club asked you to prepare an interesting program for next meeting. You wrote home to mother that "you had been discovered." Mother told Mrs. Brown next door that "Mary is so happy in her work, she keeps so busy through, why her entire club is depending upon her to arrange programs.

Then when the annual came out

In the life of each of our students there has been one person whose influence we shall always feel. Because of him we knew the kindly discipline of an understanding heart. Feeling that, now, we know a sincere admiration for the man whose principles of life were those of service and love. He had the viewpoint of students and gave the best years of his life to us. There was never a time when we did not feel his ready sympathy and his desire to understand and help solve our problems.

His life was patterned after Christ's. He gave himself that others might find a greater, deeper joy in living. In him we saw the spirit of the Lowly Nazarene.

He lived joyously and happily. He knew when we were happy and shared it with us. He made our work a joy, and our play time real in the truest sense. Same of the sweetest memories of our college years will be those hours that he contributed that we might be happy. He was never gloomy or distressed over any problem that came up, but always we knew him as a person who could smile in darkest hours.

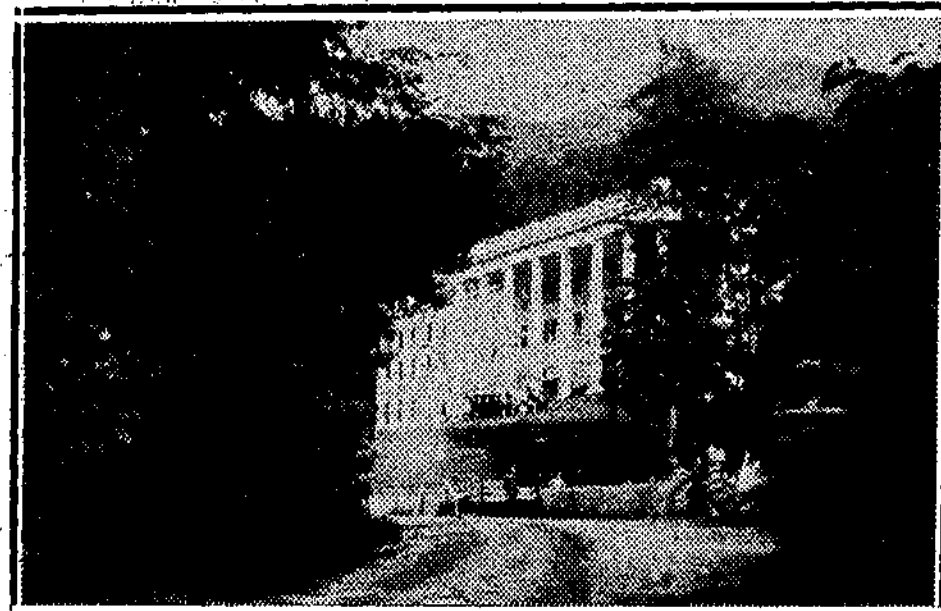

He was a man who appreciated true worth. There was never a person on campus who did his or her best and he knew it, but that person felt his keen appreciation. He had the highest admiration for honest effort.

Then we say that the characteristics of Dr. Parks were, happiness, sympathy, broad mindedness, a keen sense of fairness, and a Christ like-ness that few of us possess.

As we think over the years when we knew him we are thankful that God permitted us to know such a man. Then because of our love, admiration and loyalty to him we have endeavored to determine what will be a fitting monument to his life. We have decided that nothing would typify him more than a house of mercy, a home for those who are not well and happy. We feel that he would be glad for the construction of such a building.

It means service in the field of health and dietetics. He who first instituted Home Economics in our college would rejoice to see it thus utilized. He would feel repaid for the effort he spent in forwarding the work of our health department if he could know that this work was being employed in a hospital.

Back of this great campaign for a Parks Memorial Hospital stand 1,200 students, who compose the present student body, with 4,000 alumnae, who are scattered over the state of Georgia. Each one works shoulder to shoulder, and each heart is grateful for an opportunity to give back a little of what he has given. Daughters of Georgia readily give their time, money, and effort to see this campaign through.

See Hall at Blue Ridge.

"Many years ago a group of friends, leaving their moored boats and little shops, held some conferences together. They were all busy men, and sometime they could find no time save at the end of the day's work for meeting this Master friend of theirs. Almost always it was under the sky that they met Him. The stories that He told were always of growing things—lilies and vineyards and little children, up steep mountain paths, by the side of still waters. He led them, talking about another growing thing—the dream of all His life. For He dreamed of a new order in which all the people of the world would share in a friendly citizenship. These walks and talks of long ago were the beginnings of summer conferences."

But how can we tell you what a didn't you feel proud to see the picture of "your club."

"Your club" a band of girls united for one great purpose to better the life on our campus. To bring girls together in one great circle of love friendship and co-operation.

Summer Conference—Blue Ridge Conference—shall be like. We can sing the praises of a ten days we have known; we can tell the beauty of a Blue Ridge where mountain peaks seem to touch the sky, or a setting sun drops like a ball of fire behind the mountains while hushed voices chant beautiful vespers. But greater than beauty or fellowship or the rare quality of a group of scorching spirits living for ten days in common purpose—greater than all these is a conference. Built by human hands and minds, yearned over and prayed over, who can tell of the divine spark that it holds in waiting for each of us to come?

So Blue Ridge Conference, June 7-17 awaits any girl on G. S. C. campus who would share in ten days of re-creation of Life.

Anyone interested in Blue Ridge see Miss Goodson in the "Y" room.

Come on, girls! Every one do her bit toward making this Field Day the best one ever.

IN THE CIRCLE OF CLUBS

HELEN GREENE, Editor

THE FRENCH CLUB.

The French Club was founded on the 19th of November, 1926, for the purpose of giving advanced students an opportunity to converse, play games, and sing in French. The response of the students as shown by the attendance at the first meeting exceeded all expectations. Although the baby of campus organizations the French Club has over 90 regular members—more than twice as many as any other student organization except, of course, the Y. W. C. A.

The club decided to hold monthly meetings in the basement of Ennis Hall and to conduct its business in French.

The officers elected for the first semester were: Rachel Branch, president; Katherine Stovall, vice president; Decora Adams, secretary; Marguerite Caldwell, treasurer; Katherine Bagley, chairman of entertainment committee.

A new set of officers were elected on Jan. 28, 1927. They were: Rosalind Mason, president; Katherine Stovall, vice president; Decora Adams, secretary; Julia Reeves, treasurer; Eleanor Ennis, president of the program committee.

It is to be hoped that the new club will be a permanent and strong feature in the life of the French students at G. S. C. for the possibilities of its development are truly unlimited.

THE ATLANTA CLUB.

Two years ago the girls on G. S. C. campus who were from DeKalb and Fulton counties decided to organize and call themselves the Atlanta Club. They met and drew up a constitution, and a committee was appointed to take it to Dr. Parks for his signature.

Dr. Parks was busy when the committee went to see him, so the girls seated themselves on the grass in front of Parks Hall to wait. As they sat there and talked and wondered if Dr. Parks would be willing for them to have the club, one of the girls reached over and plucked a four-leaf clover. Heretofore there had been no such organizations on the campus, but now luck was with them and they began to entertain bright hope.

The constitution was signed, and the Atlanta Club chose as its emblem the four-leaf clover.

That first year the club was not a large one, but the members made it a live and interested group. The second year the girls numbered twenty-five and this year the club has thirty-six members.

Every Christmas they have a luncheon at some hotel in Atlanta. To this luncheon are invited all the members of the club and all G. S. C. alumni in DeKalb and Fulton counties. This is the event of the year, and the club members always look forward to it.

They usually plan for some meeting during the summer months also. Last year it was a picnic at Oakland City. This year's reunion has not been decided upon as yet, but in another month plans will be made.

THE HISTORY CLUB.

"Equality, Democracy and High Ideals" is the motto of the History Club. These three things make up the goal toward which the club is arriving. The purpose of this organization is to promote an interest in history on our campus, to inspire those girls working in this field, and to bring an appreciation of history into our every day life.

The History Club was organized November 30, 1925, by Dr. Amanda Johnson. There were twenty-eight charter members, students either majoring or minoring in history being eligible for membership. The first work of the club was, of course, to draw up its constitution and by-laws, after which they were adopted by the members of the club. The officers elected at this time were Marjorie Maxwell, president; Hazel Hogan, vice president; Evelyn Owens, secretary-treasurer.

The good work started in 1925 has continued and at present the club has a membership of fifty-five. The officers now are: Martha Sams, president; Gladys De Journette, vice president; Betty Jayne Pieratt, secretary; Minnie Stowe, treasurer. The meetings are held once a month, usually in the history lecture room. A program committee has charge of the programs. It is the aim of this committee to present to the girls of the club in an interesting way discussions which we be of value to them. Some of the topics which have been taken up in the programs are a study of the U. S. Congress and its problems, parliamentary rules of practice, and current events in general. The Open Forums of the club have been very interesting. A number of socials are held during the year.

To date the membership of the Lanier Club among students on the campus numbers twenty-five, outside of the officers named above. The members are: Gladys Bayard, Dorothy Fetter, Sara Connell, Evelyn Rogers, Marie Vallinger, Ethel Robinson, Rebecca Higginson, Helen Brannen, Lillian Darnell, Martha Barron, Margaret Medlock, Helen Cleveland, May Russ, Frances Herring, Dorothy Athon, Mary Derry, Thelma Gooding, Julia Reeves and Elizabeth Hamlin.

Pieratt, Mary Ellen Powell, Martha Riviere, Louise Salter, Martha Sams, Dora Sasser, Lucile Scroggins, Fay Sessions, Nellie Shippe, Louise Stanford.

THE LANIER CLUB.

For many years now G. S. C. W. has numbered among its best students many graduates of Lanier High School, in Macon, one of the finest of its kind in the state. Among these graduates on this campus there has always been a splendidly loyal memory of their days at Lanier, and they have always felt much in common because of their Lanier traditions. It was only recently, however, that these girls effected a permanent organization of themselves into the Lanier Club, which will take its place, or has done so, among the numerous clubs on the campus, which make their members' memories of college days all the more longing and tender.

The Lanier Club holds its meetings each month, and lists among its activities all those strictly collegian and otherwise which make one's college years memorable. On the first meeting of the club, Feb. 4, 1927, Frances Wadley, class of 1925, was made president; Mary Raby, vice president; Frances Cotton, secretary and treasurer, and Louise Anderson corresponding secretary, with Dorothy Bayne and Elizabeth Scheussler on the social committee. The officers have, proved thus far exactly the jolly, peppy and capable executives that must make membership in their club a pleasure, and the social committee has an especially interesting career, satisfying to others as to themselves. The club constitution was drawn up and adopted on first meeting, also making the club a full-fledged "one of us."

Pieratt, Mary Ellen Powell, Martha Riviere, Louise Salter, Martha Sams, Dora Sasser, Lucile Scroggins, Fay Sessions, Nellie Shippe, Louise Stanford.

The members of the club are: Decora Adams, Mary Lee Anderson, Kathryn Bagley, Frances Burton, Mary Burton, Marguerite Caldwell, Esther Cathy, Idalene Cosby, Isabelle Crowder, Gladys De Journette, Martha Duke, Mary Fort, Clifford Fowler, Willarene Freeman, Lou Garwood, Helen Greene, Genevieve Hargrove, Francis Hinton, Hazel Hogan, LITERARY GUILD.

The Literary Guild is the oldest club on our campus, being organized October 12, 1922. At the first meeting the members decided that the two main purposes of the club were first, to denote some of their leisure time to the study of contemporary literature in order to become better acquainted with it; second, to bring members of the English department taking degrees into social intercourse. In its beginning the Guild had twelve members, and Miss Gertrude Anderson was president. From year to year the membership has grown until now there are sixty on roll.

Since there was not a course in contemporary literature offered at our college when the Guild was organized, the members met to study this type of work. The programs have always centered around modern dramas, modern novels, short stories, plays, and poetry. Some plays have been dramatized by the Guild and it is hoped that some of the members will use their talents to do some creative piece of work along this line.

This year the Guild became a member of the Drama League, and through this organization it keeps in touch with contemporary writers and their works. Also, through their subscription to "The Drama" the members get information concerning modern literature. For several years a need has been felt and plans have been made for G. S. C. to have a literary magazine. Not until this year were those plans materialized, and "The Corinthian" is the result of those efforts. It is sponsored by the Literary Guild, but it aims to represent every phase of work on our campus.

Much of the growth and success of the Guild is due to the interest and loyal support of Miss Winifred Crowell, an associate professor of English in our college. She has been enthusiastic about this organization and stood by it since its youth. The officers of the Guild are Decora Adams, president; Romie Moran, secretary; Lucile Scroggins, chairman of social committee.

LaVerne Stewart, Catherine Stovall, Minnie Stowe, Grace Taylor, Frances Thaxton, Marie Williams, Monah Whitley.

English Senior Club.

The English Senior Club is composed of those students who, at the beginning of the term, enrolled themselves as English Normal Senior. The club was formed not merely for the purpose of broadening one's knowledge in the field of English, but to give a time for more social contacts and meeting those who are interested in the same field of study, and possess like interests. It tends to solve the problems and difficulties, and point out the joys and successes of those working in the field of English. The aim of each meeting is to bring something enjoyable to the club members.

It is fun to go to English Senior meetings for besides the interesting and instructive programs, there are often socials connected with them.

Miss Katherine Scott is the capable advisor of the club and her influence and aid help much toward making the club what it is.

The officers of the club are as follows: Gladys McMichael, President; Mary Elizabeth Kilpatrick, V. Pres. Mildred Stell, Chr. Program Com. Frances Christie, Chr. Social Com. Sentiments of the entire English Senior group may be expressed in a few words, "There is nothing greater than being an English Senior, if for no other reason than just belonging to the English Senior Club."

THE HOME-EC. CLUB.

The Clara Whorley Hasslack Club of G. S. C. W. of Milledgeville, Ga., was organized with an enrollment of one hundred eight (108) and has increased each month.

We have tried to make our programs educational. Ellen H. Richard's birthday was celebrated by interesting talks in the college chapel and club meeting.

We are looking forward to the visit of Miss Winchell in April and the Home Economics Club is making plans for entertaining her.

We are very glad to have as a member of our club Miss Gertrude Parker, who is chairman of Student Clubs.

Interesting material has been sent to us by Mrs. Demarest on the International Home Economics work. Pictures of girls, who are studying Home Economics in Constantinople, China, Japan were included in the material. Our next program will consist of what is being done in the different countries to further Home Economics. Each girl on the program will dress in characteristic costume of the country she represents.

As a means of obtaining funds, the members of the Home Economics Club are giving one afternoon of their time working in the college tea room selling salads, sandwiches, and drinks. The proceeds go in the treasury of the club for the purpose of doing our share in helping further the Home Economics cause.

We appreciate very much having as our faculty advisor, Miss Gusie Hill Tabb, president of the Georgia Home Economics Association.

There's a Difference.

"Agnes has discarded the lover who wrote such beautiful blank verse."

"Yes. She has accepted a man who writes beautiful blank checks."

ALUMNAE CLUBS.

News from the various cities of Georgia and neighboring states tells of the enthusiastic work of G. S. C. W. clubs. Interest is running high in the Parks Memorial fund in the towns where previously there have been no clubs now a real live spirit is shown in their organization and work. Without the co-operation and boosting of these clubs, the Parks memorial might lag in its marvelous progress.

Among the most forward of the town clubs are found in Rome, Griffin, Monticello, Savannah, Waycross, Washington, Waynesboro, Newnan and Atlanta. Though the Atlanta Club is not new, its interest high and benefit bridges are proving very successful in raising funds for the hospital.

Also a meeting of interest was held at the home of Mrs. Vaden Parks in Miami, Fla. All former students and alumnae in Miami were there, and an enthusiastic report has come from this group.

GRACE TAYLOR SELECTED AS "Y" PRESIDENT FOR A YEAR

that the girls on our campus have had confidence enough in them to place them at the head of the "Y." We feel that with the wonderful inheritance left by the out-going officers and those who have gone before the organization will go still further the upward path during the coming year.

To the out-going officers we would express the deepest appreciation of their sincere devotion and earnest work in carrying on the responsibilities placed upon them by the members of the Y. W. C. A. It is by their inspiration and confidence that the new officers shall more earnestly carry the torch during 1927-28.

The girls who have been chosen as leaders have proved themselves capable of carrying responsibilities and with the sincere co-operation of every girl the Y. W. C. S. shall go forward to an even higher goal than ever before.

FORMER FACULTY MEMBER HONORED.

with the building up of the Summer School and its success through the state. Many of us are familiar with his book, The Jesus of Our Fathers, which he published the year before he left the college. This book has attracted wide attention in this country and in England, and it has had a good sale. He has also written another book, The Milton Tradition.

Dr. Good is an A. B. and A. M. graduate of Erskine College. He received the Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois. He is a Phi Kappa Phi, and a member of the Modern Language Association of America, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, and the Royal Society of Arts (London).

Those who know and love Dr. Good wish for him continued success and service in educational work and for the young people of our loved state.

"Look, Daddy, I pulled this weed right up all by myself."

"By jove, you're strong!"

"Yes, aren't I, Daddy? The whole world had hold of the other end!"

FRESHMEN GIVEN SELF-GOVERNMENT.

number of years, he had much to do his crew. This was followed by short speeches by the other officers of the class, Dorothy Jay, Catherine Allen and Doris Watkins, pledging co-operation and allegiance to the college. Dorothy Parks then introduced all the officers of the dormitories. The privileges were read by the secretary and followed by a song by the class. Dr. Beeson spoke a few words concerning the honor bestowed upon the class and the great responsibility which necessarily followed.

Due to the co-operation already shown and the good conduct of its members, the Freshman class of '28-27 was given its privileges earlier than any class before it. The class will certainly respond in the most appreciative manner and intends to prove to be not only the biggest but also the best class in the college.

Morning's Morning.
Gymnastics are the things to do,
(Or ough to) when you leave your bed,
With dumb-bells, preferably two,
And clubs to swing around your head.

Then raise yourself upon your hands,
Whilst lying on the chilly floor,
Or wrestle with elastic bands
Affixed to hooks behind the door.
This brings your muscles up in knobs
And makes you fit for household jobs.
